Blames Fumes In Deaths of Father, Son

Coroner Clears Up 'Mystery'

Pair Found at Fredericktown

FREDERICKTOWN—Mystery surrounding the deaths of a 61-year-old father and his 32-year-old son, was cleared today by a verdict of suffocation from gas fumes, given by Knox County Coroner C. L. Harmer.

Found dead were Herbert Stevens and his son, Harold. The two men were discovered yesterday, slumped in chairs in their combination living room-bedroom home.

Sheriff Salathiel Bumps said a temperature reading in the apartment was recorded at 120 degrees and that a small gas stove was "burning furiously."

"The heat from the gas stove was so great that it caused a rupture of the body vessels," Dr. Harmer stated. The coroner added that he placed the time of death as Saturday. The men were last seen Friday morning.

Dr. Harmer today ruled out any possibility that the father and son could have been engaged in a fight. The possibility that they could have beaten each other to death was given by the coroner yesterday when a blood-splattered ax handle was found on the floor.

ROOM IN ORDER

"There was absolutely no fighting in the room. Everything was in order. The bodies were found on opposite sides of the room, a half-emptied whisky bottle by each. They probably drank themselves into a stupor and died from the effects of the gas fumes," the coroner added.

Both men were separated from their wives. The father had been employed as a moulder at the Foote foundry in Fredericktown. The son was reportedly unemployed.

Hoy Stevens, owner of the garage apartment where the father and son lived, and a distant relative of the men, found the decomposed bodies yesterday. The garageman told sheriff's deputies that he had gone upstairs in the garage to get some tools when he saw blood dripping through the floor of the apartment.

The bodies were taken to the Bollinger funeral home in Fredericktown prior to removal to Chillicothe, where services and burial will be held.

Confesses Slaying

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A 39-year-old truck driver's helper has admitted the weekend slaying of a 28-year-old Columbus woman in a downtown hotel, police said today.

Detective Chief Glenn C. Hoffman said the man was arrested yesterday at his home. Hoffman did not divulge his name.

Hoffman said the man admitted taking Esther Seibert to the Waldo hotel, early Saturday and stabbing her to death.

No charges have been filed against the man.

Police did not say whether they questioned the man about the similar stabbing death of Mona McBride in the Ohio Hotel March 31, 1948. Hoffman earlier said it was probable both slayings were done by the same person.

Police records at Columbus showed the suspect had been convicted of robbery and sentenced to Mansfield Reformatory in 1938.

TRUCK DRIVER KILLED

CINCINNATI — (UP) — Jerry Grimes, 40-year-old truck driver was crushed to death early today when his tractor-trailer rammed a culvert on U. S. Route 52, about 10 miles west of Portsmouth.

City to Ask Refund On Gas Charge

Solicitor Cites Franchise Terms

Mansfield is going to ask the Ohio Fuel Gas company for a refund of $103. The gas company billed the city for this amount for gas used to heat the new No. 5 fire station during November and December. And the bill was paid.

Investigation revealed that according to terms of the gas company's original franchise gas was to be furnished free for heating the municipal building and fire stations.

Yesterday, Service-Safety Director Earl T. Garrison said he would ask for the refund as soon as he gets a written opinion from City Solicitor C. J. Kalbfleisch.

Kalbfleisch said he will advise the director to ask for the refund.

The solicitor explained that although the gas company's franchise nominally expired in 1936 (it was passed in 1911 to extend 25 years), under a decision of the Ohio Supreme court it automatically is extended for an indeterminate period.

According to the decision, in the case of Newcomerstown vs The Gas company, an indeterminate franchise remains in effect as long as it is agreeable to both parties and until, upon disagreement, a new franchise is negotiated.

(Mansfield's gas rate ordinance also has nominally expired — in 1941. But it, too, according to the solicitor, continues to be effective until a new one is asked and negotiated.)

The gas company's franchise does not specify how many fire stations are to be supplied with free gas. It says plainly however, that the company "shall furnish natural gas, free of cost, in sufficient quantities for heating ..the municipal building and fire stations....."

Civilian Irks GI; Railroad Train Suffers

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Because a civilian fellow passenger told him the army is "no good," a 28-year-old corporal wrecked about $1,000 worth of equipment early today on a New York Central train, police said.

Corporal John R. De Mille of Framingham, Mass., was finally subdued by porters and police and taken off the train at Collinwood yards here, authorities said, after going on a rampage through three cars.

The army needler escaped De Mille's wrath by locking himself in the men's room during the spree, they said.

Fathers, Sons Hear Clayton

Dr. Glenn L. Clayton, president of Ashland college, addressed the annual Dads and Lads dinner of the St. Johns' Evangelical and Reformed church last night at the church.

Dr. Clayton said, "fathers must share their son's point of view if the boy is to develop into his fullness of stature".

Dr. Clayton urged more comradeship and understanding between fathers and sons.

Rev. John Melchert, pastor of St. Johns' church announced there would be a similar dinner for mothers and daughters in May.

'CHAIN BOMBER'—A home-made bomb wrecked the $75,000 mansion of Herman Hover, night club owner, in Beverly Hills, Calif., and unexploded bombs were found in two other homes. Hover and Policeman Herbert Forbes survey the damage (left) while Officer Sam W. Hedrick sits beside the jail cell cot of Joseph Ward, 55, a suspect in the plan to bomb the homes of six men. Officers claim Ward was angered by the California Industrial Accident commission. Said Ward: "The commission gave me a bum deal on my compensation. I'm not sorry at all."

Youth Shot By Officer

Boys Spotted Rifling Store

ASHLAND — Police gunfire felled a 16-year-old boy and led to the arrest of his brother, 15, when they were surprised rifling a cash register in a West Main street shoe store at 1:05 a. m. today.

The older boy, wounded in the side, was reported in "fair" condition today by Samaritan hospital attaches.

Police Chief Harry Smith said their capture accounts for a recent series of five robberies. He said stolen loot was recovered in their home.

Patrolmen George Riggle and Robert Hamilton noticed a rear window broken at the Cornwell and Gault shoe store while making an inspection of their district. Riggle went to the front door and Hamilton stayed at the rear. They noticed the youths rifling the cash register.

When the youths fled, Hamilton's shot felled the older brother. Police said they recovered $18 the boys had taken from the shoe store. At the boys' home police reported finding 800 rounds of ammunition taken Saturday night from the Walter Good sports shop and two guns stolen earlier from a filling station.

The boys will be turned over to juvenile court. The younger boy is being questioned before being taken to the detention home at county jail to await action. Charges of breaking and entering and theft doubtless will be placed against the two juveniles, Chief Smith said.

Railroads Note Slump

WASHINGTON —(UP) — Government and industry figures indicated today that the railroad industry is in its biggest postwar slump.

The Association of American Railroads said that freight shipments the first six weeks of this year were 392,204 carloads below the first six weeks of 1948, and 658,066 carloads under the correspoding period in 1947.

A spokesman for the association estimated railroad passenger traffic so far this year at "10 to 14 per cent below the comparable period of 1948."

Would Restore Controls

Taft Rips Proposed Truman Tax Plan

(Compiled From Wire Services)

CLEVELAND—Senator Robert A. Taft said last night the tax burden that will result if President Truman's entire program is enacted by Congress will fall "not on the rich man but on the man and woman in the street."

The Ohio senator addressed a dinner meeting attended by more than 1,500 Cuyahoga county Republicans.

"The ordinary person is going to suffer if we go back to a socialized system where there is no initiative," Taft said. "Look at the program the President proposes. The administration is out to raise taxes from 42 billion dollars to 50 billion at once and 60 billion within five years."

He charged that the President's program for a "planned economy" included the restoration of OPA, WPB, and "all wartime controls."

Taft, who already has launched his campaign for re-election in 1950, said the task of Republicans in Congress is to defeat the Truman program based on "socialization and regimentation" and to fight for enactment of its own program.

"A permanent basis for real social welfare can be laid within the principles of liberty," he said.

The Republicans, he said, believe in protecting the rights guaranteed the individual by the Taft-Hartley law, holding down taxes, and opposing controls of governmental bureaus over the farmer, the housewife and the businessman.

He added: "We believe in an affirmative program for social welfare based on federal aid to states to enable the states to do a more complete job in providing medical care for the needy; a better and more complete system of old age pensions; federal aid to education, particularly in the poorer states; federal aid to provide public housing for the lowest income groups.

"This program is based not on the aim of paying the expenses of people able to pay their expenses themselves, nor on limiting their ability to spend money, but rather on the elimination of hardship and poverty."

Athens Case Starts Feud

ATHENS — (INS) — Tempers flared in Athens today as the attorney general got himself a new grand jury to investigate the circumstances surrounding the claw-hammer death of Miss Eleanor Gifford.

Cincinnati churchman Charles P. Taft called Athens county Sheriff Geroge Bateman "totally incompetent" in his handling of the investigation.

Sheriff Bateman said he was completely surprised at such a statement — "especially coming from a man as big as Charlie Taft is supposed to be."

Yesterday common pleas Judge Roy B. Williams ordered the Athens county grand jury dismissed and a new one drawn up tomorrow.

Miss Gifford, an Episcopal church field worker, was bludgeoned to death in her cottage home Jan. 3.

Two youths, Harry Dodds, 20-year-old ex-inmate of the Mansfield Reformatory, and Pvt. Grover Rawlins, 18 - year - old Fort Knox soldier, are being held in connection with the robbery slaying.

Conciliator In Galion

Strike Settlement Hopes Given Boost

GALION — The arrival of J. H. Montany, of Columbus and federal conciliator, here today promised early negotiations toward settlement of the strike which got under way at 6 a. m. yesterday at the Hercules Steel Products corporation.

A picket line of 10 men to a shift are working a 24-hour-period to keep workers from entering the plant, union spokesmen declared. Approximately 150 plant workers are involved.

Disagreement on a proposed adjustment of piece work rates prompted the strike. Negotiations between Local 1151, International Association of Machinists, and company officials were held Saturday without an accord being reached.

While company officials have stated the disagreement was over what they termed as "admittedly excessive" few piece work rates, union spokesmen said the company had proposed a 30 per cent reduction in piece work rates and that a cut, at this time, could not be accepted at the cost of living rate.

On the other hand company officials explained a readjustment in rates and lower cost of production is necessary if the company is the compete successfully in a peacetime market.

Negotiations began Nov. 16 with the contract expiring Dec. 31. The union took a strike vote Jan. 5 but negotiations continued in an effort to set up a new contract. The IAM has been recognized as bargaining agent for employes since 1936. The union formerly was affiliated with the AFL but now is classified as an independent union although close contact is maintained with the AFL.

Employment dropped off at the plant in September with a drop in the dump body business. During the war there were more than 600 employes at the plant. The plant is located on Sherman street, where the company manufactures metallic grave vaults, dump bodies, hoists, power chutes and cement carriers.

Identify Second Bandit

A 23-year-old Shiloh man, now serving a two-year term in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., for auto theft, was named late yesterday by the FBI as the second man involved in the Tiro bank robbery last July 27.

The FBI in Cleveland said robbery charges were filed against Homer Brown of Shiloh. Agent R. J. Abbaticchio, in charge of the Cleveland office, said Brown has served time in the Mansfield reformatory and at Lewisburg for previous crimes.

Also charged with the $2,300 robbery of the Tiro Farmers and Citizens National bank at gunpoint is Elmer Eugene Chronister, of Plymouth, who was captured Saturday morning at the home of his wife in Euclid. Chronister is a former Mansfielder.

The FBI declined to say what led them to the arrest of the two men, except to say it was all a part of their investigation which began just after the robbery was committed. They were aided by Marshall Robert Meiser, of Tiro, agents said.

BOUND OVER

Chronister went before the U. S. Commissioner in Cleveland Saturday afternoon on charges of violation of the Federal Bank robbery statute and was bound over to the Federal grand jury. He is being held in the Cuyahoga county jail under $7,500 bond.

Whether Brown will be returned from the penitentiary to face the latest charge against him now must be determined by the U. S. Attorney's office in Cleveland, the FBI said.

Conviction on the charge carries a prison sentence up to 25 years and a fine up to $5,000.

Report Hits Duplication

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Hoover commission today proposed a thorough overhauling of the agriculture department at the state, county and local levels to avoid duplication and weed out "unnecessary employes."

The commission also suggested a re-grouping of the department's organizational activities to eliminate "overlap, conflict and waste."

In the sixth of 15 reports it is making to Congress on ways of "streamlining" the executive branch of government, the commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover recommended consolidation of the major land agencies and a tightening of conservation payments.

"In recent years," the commission said, "the department has not taken full advantage of the established and effective state organizations in performing many agricultural programs and has thereby produced some duplication of national and state effort at local levels."

Union Also Eyes Pensions

City Lists 1,800 Members

Possibility that Mansfield Tire and Rubber company union employes may ask for their fourth-round of wage increases was seen today as union leaders completed action on a 1949 wage program in Cleveland.

Norman Yarger, treasurer of Local 17, URWA-CIO, at the Mansfield Tire plant, said today that any wage or contract negotiations between Local 17 and the local plant would affect "at least the 1,800 members of the union."

Yarger added that the union's contract with the company expires on May 1 and that he "believed" union members were allowed one wage reopening date during the year.

Desmond Walker, president of the union, is attending the Cleveland meeting today.

GET PAID HOLIDAYS

Paid holidays were granted the union by the Mansfield Tire company last year.

In March, members of Local 17 voted 3 to 1 to accept a 35-hour working week, seen to forestall a mass lay-off during a "normal seasonal decline in sales."

The wage program, under union consideration today, would affect 180,000 rubber workers. L. S. Buckmaster, president of the CIO United Rubber Workers, yesterday outlined a plan calling for wage hikes, pensions, health and accident insurance and a guaranteed annual wage.

Three of the nation's "big four" rubber companies, however, have contracts which cannot be reopened before 1950 except for wage negotiations.

These are the U. S. Rubber company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Firestone Tire and Rubber company and the B. F. Goodrich company.

Buckmaster presented his outline to the union's international policy committee, but pointed out that he had not "attempted to formulate the action which you will take here." He mentioned no specific figure.

In dealing with the other phases of the program, he made these comments:

PENSIONS—"Our people can no longer go without an adequate pension and retirement plan. This will always be in the fore of our demands until we achieve it."

HEALTH AND WELFARE — "Our international union has already taken the lead in formulating a health and welfare program for negotiation with employers.

"This program includes up to 52 weeks of sickness and accident benefits at $25 per week, $7 per day hospitalization for up to 120 days, surgical benefits up to $200 and other advantages."

GUARANTEED ANNUAL WAGE—"A program of guaranteed annual wages is one of the key objectives of our CIO union. . . . We may indeed not achieve this objective immediately, but we should make the start in that direction where contracts permit."

Last year the union asked for a 30-cent pay boost and finally settled with the "big four" for 11 cents.

Kroger Scion Dies on Plane

CINCINNATI —(INS) — Chester Frederick Kroger, 52-year-old son of the Kroger Grocery chain founder, died last night apparently of a heart attack on a Cincinnati - bound plane.

The son of the late B. H. Kroger, who founded a multi-million dollar grocery and baking business, was en route from his summer home in West Palm Beach, Fla., where he had spent the last several months.

His permanent residence was in Indian Hill, a Cincinnati suburb.

Delta Airlines officials said Kroger was found slumped in his seat about a half hour before the plane landed at the Greater Cincinnati airport on the last leg of its flight from Atlanta, Ga.

Called 'Spy', Deported By Russians

Dr. Strong Lived In Mansfield When a Youngster

Dr. Anna Louise Strong, who has been deported from Russia on charges of being "an American spy," is a former Mansfielder, it was revealed today.

As a girl, the authoress lived at the northwest corner of West Fourth and Mulberry streets, and went to Mansfield schools, according to Rufus A. Tracy. Her father was Frederick E. Tracy, one of the firm of Tracy and Avery.

Later Mrs. Strong went to Oberlin college. She is now 63.

About seven or eight years ago, the Rufus Tracys visited Mrs. Strong in her Washington state home. However, they have had no contact with her since that time.

The Soviet press carried a brief announcement this morning, saying "the arrested American woman journalist, A. Strong, was deported from the U.S.S R."

The brief announcement did not state where she was deported.

Mrs. Strong's arrest was announced in the Moscow press Feb. 15.

Two days after her arrest the Soviet ministry of foreign affairs confirmed to the U. S. embassy in Moscow that she had been arrested for spying and "subversive activities" and would be deported.

Records in Washington show that Mrs. Strong first went to Russia in 1921. Since then she has written numerous articles and books and has delivered many lectures praising the Soviet communist way of life.

U. S. officials in Washington, upon hearing of her arrest last week, were strongly skeptical of the motives behind the Soviet action.

They charged that Mrs. Strong might be expelled from Russia under a cloud to spy on American activities.

"She would be of more value to them here than there," one Washington official said.

Mrs. Strong's sister, Mrs. Charles H. Niederhauser, of Menlo Park, Calif., indicated that perhaps the pro-Soviet writer had fallen from grace because she opposed the cominform.

"Some time ago, in a private conversation, she did openly criticize Russia for its attitude toward Tito and the Yugoslav government," Mrs. Niederhauser said.

American officials insisted, however, that her expulsion from Russia "may be a ruse."

'Gone With the Wind' Still Going As Far as Author Is Concerned

LIFE has been anything but a breeze for Margaret Mitchell since she completed "Gone With the Wind" thirteen years ago.

Her sensationally successful first novel turned her from a quiet Georgia newspaper feature writer into an internationally famous figure.

Since 1936 her book has sold some 8,000,000 copies in 40 countries and 30 different languages. Only the Bible outsells her. And today people of Georgia are much reconciled to the fact than Peggy herself.

"I didn't start out to be an international lawyer—but I have had to become one." said the plump, blue-eyed creator of Scarlet O'Hara and Rhett Butler.

Today her novel is still selling more than 50,000 copies a year in America—and probably an equal number overseas. And that is what keeps Margaret busy. For the duty of checking carefully into foreign sales of her novel has forced her against her will to become a business women.

Those details were handled by her husband, John Marsh, until he was stricken with a heart attack three years ago. He is now recuperating. And for that Margaret Mitchell says she is more grateful than she is for all the fame and fortune her novel has brought her.

As a matter of fact her world renown has changed her not at all. And she is particularly grateful to her friends for not letting her success go either to her head or their heads.

"They treat me just as they always did—and that I appreciate," she said.

She is a little amused at out of town visitors who expect to find her in a mansion with tall white columns. She lives in a five-room apartment, and her only servant, Bessie, the cook, has been with her family a couple of decades."

Writing a best-seller compelled her to hire a secretary to answer her mail. And she is still awakened occasionally at night by a drunk calling long distance to ask the color of Scarlet's hair.

Patiently she gets down her own copy of the novel and reads the passages saying that her heroine had black hair. The reward:

"This costs me fifty bucks," moans the drunk. "I bet Scarlet had red hair. Are you sure she doesn't?"

Margaret is sure — even though she hasn't read her own book all the way through since it was published in 1936. She is still amazed and disconcerted at its success — because she thinks both Scarlet and Rhett are fundamentally immoral people She dislikes and disapproves of both of them.

"The book is popular now with teen agers." she said. "But when I was that age my parents wouldn't let me read a book of that character."

Mrs. Marsh—and that's the name she likes best—is financially fixed for life. But she is annoyed over two things: Rumors that she is secretly writing another novel and that "Gone With The Wind" was an off-hand product of her leisure.

"I have a hundred more novels I would like to write," she complained mildly. "But the business details of my first book still take all my time. Nobody believes that—but it is true. I am not writing another book.

"Many people have the idea that I just sat down at a typewriter one day and whipped out my novel. They think writing is that easy.

"Actually I began writing at the age of six years. I worked twelve years on "Gone With The Wind" and threw away a lot of novels I had written before that.

"I wrote the first chapter 71 times before it was accepted, and once more after that. I would still be rewriting it if they had let me.

"I am a story teller. I am not interested in style. I wanted to write simply — and that takes hard work. But people today aren't interested in work."

Margaret Mitchell still is.

Amvets Hit Pension Plan

Members of the Robert P. Spreng post, Amvets, last night instructed their officers to write letters to representatives in Congress opposing pensions for veterans, Louis Doerr, Amvet commander, said today.

Doerr explained the Amvets here opposed the plan because it would eventually take in about half the population and create a difficult economic situation.

Amvet officers also were authorized to address letters to the State department in Washington protesting the "coddling" of former nazi officials, who helped start World War II, Doerr said. He said they particularly opposed the treatment for Von Papen, who has been given back his former possessions.

The vets voted to sponsor a teen-age basketball team for the state Amvet tournament.

John Fike, of the YMCA staff, will pick the team, manage it and accompany it to the city where the tournament will be held. Details of the tournament have yet to be announced, Louis Doerr, commander, said today.

Winning team in the contest gets a trip to Washington, D.C., with all expenses paid and a tour of the important historical spots of the city, Doerr said.

Capt. Frank M. Griffeth, an officer of the Army Reserve on temporary duty, spoke to Amvets last night of the reserve program for veterans.

Following the meetings, Amvets had refreshments and a social hour.

Youth Gets OSR Term

Sentenced In Car Tampering Case

One of two youths caught tampering with a parked car early Saturday morning on North Walnut street was given an indeterminate sentence in the Mansfield Reformatory yesterday by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer.

The youth, Willie Ray Chaffin, 17, of 508 Johns avenue, confessed the charges of possession of burglary tools. In such a sentence he would be eligible for parole in 10 months, but could serve up to age, depending on his behavior.

Police said that on capturing Chaffin and another youth, Thomas H. Strickland, of 549 Johns Avenue, they found two pliers, a wrench, two screwdrivers, three flashlights, and two pairs of glives on the youths.

Strickland was shot in an attempt to escape from officers who found the two at the car. He is in fair condition in General hospital.

Strickland, who is 18, was charged with possession of burglary tools in an affidavit filed by police in municipal court.

Graduates to Hear Noted Church Editor

Dr. Roy L. Smith, Chicago, editor of the Christian Advocate, will give the Mansfield Senior high school commencement address.

The commencement exercises will be held on June 9, the last day of school. The board of education last night approved the securing of Dr. Smith as the commencement speaker for the ceremony to be held in the stadium behind the school building.

Baccalaureate services will be in the First Lutheran church, June 5. The baccalaureate speaker has not been chosen.

The Christian Advocate, is the official newspaper of the Methodist church, and is published in Chicago. Dr. Smith is known both nationally and internationally as an outstanding speaker, school officials said.

The board approved the request of Supt. W. L. Miller to attend the meeting of the American Association of School Administrators in St. Louis, Feb. 26 to March 3.

Given approval was a new plan for holding the annual school garden contest. Under the plan, a permanent organization will be set up to supervise and judge the gardens.

The Johnny Appleseed garden club, of which Mrs. O. M. Cummins is president, will sponsor the contest. Mrs. James Eberly, chairman of the supervision committee, is working on changes in rules and will have the material ready for distribution in the spring.

The board gave its approval to the request of the Prospect school P-TA to remove swings and playground equipment from the grounds for donations to the Prospect Park association.

Bicycle Stolen

Harold Grandon, 661 Springmill street, reported a bicycle stolen from in front of his repair shop at 171 North Mulberry street yesterday. The bicycle was stolen about 8:30 p. m. when Grandon stepped out of his shop for a few minutes.

Plans Show Of Fireworks

Mansfield is going to see a public fireworks display next Fourth of July.

The board of education last night granted the Mansfield Public Parks association permission to use Arlin field for the fireworks show the night of July 4.

Robert Ellis, president of the park association, said today a meeting of park officials and a representative of a fireworks display company would be held at Johns park on March 9. At that time, Ellis said, members will decide how much money they want to spend and appoint committees to care for arrangements at the Field.

With the exception of a display on V-J day and one other Fourth of July celebration, there have been no fireworks displays since before the war. Prior to World War II, they were held annually at the Firgrounds.

SECOND CALL FOR HELP

Neighbors of the Roy Jackson family repeated their plea today for help for the family who lost their six-months-old son and their home in a tragic fire a week ago today. Former pleas for help have brought in only a few items of household furnishings, according to Mrs. Harold Karsmizki, Tingley avenue. So far the family has received a cooking stove, a washing machine, one bed and a few clothes. Household linens, clothes and furniture are still needed. So far, a donation of $100 has been collected among the Garden Acres neighbors of the Jacksons. Anyone having anything to give to the family may call Mrs. Karsmizki, phone 3961-9, or Mrs. John Stephenson, Morgan avenue, phone 2074-2. Donations will be picked up.

NEEDS MUSICIANS

Are you a musician with a spare evening each week-Wednesday, that is? Donald B. Tennant, director of the Mansfield Recreational orchestra, has just the place for you. He would like to see more musicians, at the 7:30 p. m. Wednesday rehearsals of the orchestra in the Senor high auditorium. According to Tennant the group particularly needs a trumpet player, a couple of flute tooters, two trombone players and two or three French horn instrumentalists. Oboe, bassoon, and string instrument musicians, including the violin, cello, viola and bass viol, are always needed, he said.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—

There's a double reason for the celebration which will be held at the Louis P. Wirtz home, 85 Lexington avenue, tonight. Wirtz is celebrating his 85th birthday as well as the birth of his first great grandchild. He has received word of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schaller of Lakewood.

Another older resident celebrating a birthday is J. W. Tlazer, 140 West Fourth street, who is 80 today. Although Tlazer has been an invalid for a number of years, he takes an active interest in civic affairs.

The News-Journal also extends birthday best wishes to John Shook, Dr. R. K. Ort, and Attorney George W. Biddle.

PREFERS CIVILIZATION—

George Pfeifer, OPS maintenance man, is currently scurrying about town seeking advice on how to feed and care for a 'possum. He returned from work the other day to find the little marsupial had "taken over" and showed no intentions of departing for the wilds. This is the third case of a civilization-seeking 'possum in Mansfield since just before Christmas.

Building Details Approved

Hartman Deal Receives OK

Two of the city's new grade school buildings will carry the names of the two buildings they will replace, the old Carpenter and Brinkerhoff schools.

The Board of Education decided on the names last night. The new building which will go up on the Hartman property at Marion avenue and Carpenter road will be designated the Carpenter building. The new Brinkerhoff school will be erected at Highland, Arlington, and Euclid avenues.

Preliminary plans for the new Brinkerhoff school have been presented to the board, members said.

The board authorized Clerk John H. Eisaman to purchase the Hartman property from Mrs. E. R. Hartman for $87,500. The large Hartman home will be used as administrative headquarters for the board and the new Carpenter school will be built on that two-and-one-half acre tract.

Miller said the Hartman property site was found to be the most suitable because it was equally distant from other schools in the area. He said one of the contemplated sites would have meant tearing down 18 houses and displacing 24 families while building on the Brinkerhoff site would have necessitated buying three adjacent houses.

SELLS OLD SCHOOLS

He said that also would have required expense in tearing down the present Brinkerhoff school. Miller said the board will offer the present Carpenter and Brinkerhoff properties for sale and expects the sales to bring in more than the board is paying for the Hartman property.

He said the John Simpson school enrollment was pushing upward, and that vacating of the administrative headquarters would provide more room there. Possession of the Hartman property will be obtained between July 1 and Aug. 1.

The board decided to file a petition with the city council asking for vacating of two alleys on the site for the new Brinkerhoff school.

Two change notices submitted by the Mountaineer Construction company, which is building the new Roseland school were approved.

The board will pay the firm $130 extra for installation of additional concrete in the auditorium for the installation of seats, and $4,250 extra in that more bricks were used in putting up the building than anticipated in the original contract.

In accordance with the contract the board was to pay the difference if more bricks were used than anticipated.

BIDS ASKED

The board last night authorized the advertising of bids for stage equipment for three new schools and the Rebecca Grubaugh school. Bids are to be mailed to John H. Eisaman, clerk of the board of education, by noon March 28.

The board also voted last night to purchase $6,189.90 worth of tables, chairs and desks for the Newman and West Fifth street schools from the Mansfield reformatory. The stage equipment is to go to the Roseland, Newman, West Fifth, and Grubaugh schools.

The furniture to be purchased was listed as 282 tables for $2,782.645, 721 chairs for $2,167.25, and 31 desks for $1,240.

Hotel Guests Depart Take Linen With Them

George Keffalas, proprietor of the DeSoto hotel, reported to police two roomers had stolen linens and towels from the hotel yesterday.

Keffalas said a couple registered and left a call for 9:45 p. m. Failing to get an answer he entered the door with a pass key and discovered the pair had left, taking with them two pillow cases, two hand towels, and one sheet, value $5. The couple had paid $2.50 for their room in advance.

Derr to Study With Noted Choral Leader In New York

A. Lemoine Derr, director of vocal music at Senior high school, has received an invitation from Robert Shaw, director of the famed Collegiate Chorale of New York City, to study with him for one week, beginning March 12.

Derr will leave by plane from Columbus immediately after the Zanesville concert on March 11. He will return home March 19.

Shaw is considered the outstanding chorale director in the country. He is director of the Professional Touring chorus of New York City and head of the vocal direction department at Juilliard School of Music, New York City. Contacts were made with Shaw by the Mastersingers management without Derr's knowledge.

Last night at regular rehearsal at the Prospect park pavilion, Derr was presented with his itinerary and a check to cover all expenses during his week's stay.

Dr. F. A. Hoffman, who with C. H. Platt had made the contacts with Shaw, said today Derr has been given a leave of absence by the schools so he can work with Shaw for the week.

While in New York City, Derr will meet in rehearsal with Toscanini, one of the world's greatest conductors; Curt Winehold, director of the Columbia concert group; O. O. Bottorff, president of the Civic Music Service, Fred Waring; two artists who sang here with the Mastersingers; Frank Guarrera and John Tyers, and many other Metropolitan artists.

During the week, he will attend four rehearsals each day with Shaw, who has promised to consult with Derr both before and after rehearsals.

Donnenwirth, Dill Are Most Valuable Cagers

Coaches Pick Annual N-J All-County Team

By CHARLEY STINE

Desmond Donnenwirth of Plymouth and Lexington's Dick Dill were the most valuable players of the Richland county league high school basketball season.

So say the eight county coaches who combined to select the 1948-49 edition of the annual News-Journal all-county cage team.

Donnenwirth was probably one of the best "shots" ever to participate in county play. He led the loop in scoring with 206 points despite the fact that he was playing with a team which finished in the second division.

Dill was cited by his coach, Don Sutter, for "ball-handling, team play, and general all-around ability." A slight six-foot in height, Dill is small as good centers go but made up for it with his hand-offs from the pivot position. He was third in the league in scoring.

POINT SYSTEM

Donnenwirth and Dill amassed a total of 14 out of a possible 16 points. In other words, six coaches placed them both on their first teams, and the other two put them on the second squad. Two points were credited for a first team vote and one for a second.

Rounding out the top five are Ontario's Howard Sunnucks, Lucas' Jack Stephenson and Lexington's Duane Wirick. Since only one guard is among the quintet, Sunnucks was placed at that position. He was named as a guard by his own coach, Dick Casad.

Casad had high praise for the skinny, blond-haired junior who led the league in scoring until the last day.

"He is as good on defense as offense," the coach said. "I consider him the outstanding player in the county in many years."

One other junior was named to the first team. He was Jack Stephenson, the 16-year-old Lucas star who averaged 15.5 points per game to lead the league in that department.

Wirick, the fifth first stringer, won his place by ability to literally play guard and forward at the same time. Wirick brought the ball down the floor, yet would be under the basket jumping on nearly every rebound.

FIVE GUARDS

Little regard was paid to positions on the second team as five of the six men picked were guards. Six were named because a tie of two men with four points.

The group averages only about five-eight but would put on a nice show is lined up for a hundred yard dash. All make up for a lack of size with great speed and ability to snatch the ball from an opponent's hands.

Three of the top five are to parade their stuff tonight in the opening session of the county tournament at Senior high gym.

Ontario meets Union in the opening game at 7:30 p. m. while Lexington faces Shiloh an hour later. Doors will open at 6 p. m. and officials expect plenty of tickets to be available at the door. All tickets have been passed out to the competing schools but some are expected to be returned.

Ontario and Lexington rate as heavy favorites. Many fans, however, recall one year ago on opening night when a sixth-place Bellville team knocked out tourney-favorite Lexington and went on to win the tournament.

Bellville and Butler meet at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow in the top first round attraction while Plymouth and Lucas follow at 8:30. Semi-finals are set for Thursday and finals Saturday.

Tournament officials are Don Clymer and Carl Bachman, both of Findlay.

Buckeyes Fall to Indiana But Illinois Marches On

CHICAGO—(AP)—Illinois' ten-deep basketball team which has clung steadily to the Big Nine lead throughout a rough season was a game closer to its first league crown since 1943 today, but the path ahead apparently was becoming rougher.

The Illini rambled to their second highest score of the league season in trouncing Iowa last night, 80 to 49, but Indiana, one of the remaining opponents for the leaders, showed increasing class with a 65 to 45 win over Ohio State.

WILDCATS LOSE

Northwestern, the next opponent of the Illini, tumbled before Wisconsin, 57 to 46, while Michigan, who will play Illinois in the final game of the season, bounced Purdue 64 to 53.

Minnesota, in second place in the conference, tried non-league play and beat Michigan State, 57 to 47.

Illinois used 15 men in downing Iowa with Forward Dwight Eddleman the pace-maker with 19 points. Eddleman hit a 40-foot field goal in the first 10 seconds and although Iowa's Charlie Mason, who counted 15 points, tied the score in the next five seconds, Eddleman dropped a 20-footer then and the Illini were never headed.

Wisconsin's Don Rehfeldt apparently clinched the league individual scoring title in the Badger win over Northwestern. He dropped 21 points to increase his total to 179 for 10 games, 16 points better than his closest two rivals, Bob Raidiger of Ohio State and Howard Williams of Purdue. And both Raidiger and Williams have played in 11 games with only one more to go.

Indiana, sparked by Lou Watson and Bill Garrett who each canned 18 points, led all the way against the Buckeyes. Ohio rallied early in the second half to pull within two points, but the Hoosiers dashed in 19 points in six minutes to go ahead again and win with ease.

Mansfield Man Plans 'New Look'

By FRED THARP

(News-Journal Sports Editor)

With the advent of the wide-open style of play in all sports, the two-platoon system is all the vogue among the coaching profession.

Take, for instance, the Cleveland Browns in pro football, Michigan in college football and Bowling Green in college basketball. These organizations have all found the free subbing theory to be the best. It makes for more scoring and is the "new look" in sports.

But along comes a Mansfielder who plans to put all previous subbing systems to shame. The gentleman in question is Bill "Doc" Daugherty. Bill has been connected with school and basketball independent coaching, bowling, Tyger club, etc.—for several years.

His latest venture is coaching the "Old" Old Timers basketball team which will meet the "Young" Old Timers at John Simpson junior high school Thursday night. The game will be played at a preliminary to the Mansfield Class "B" amateur league championship.

Right now Daugherty's squad numbers some 29 players—all former stars in their own right. Most of the "gang" starred in high school and independent basketball and many were college aces. Daugherty is also trying to convince such fellows as Floyd Dent, Charlie Nail, Harold Teevens, Grig Young and "Frappie" Underwood that they're just at the prime for the hardcourt sport.

The six-platoon system will work something like this. Daugherty will send in a complete new quintet every two minutes. Which means that the "land" of 40 or more will see action two or three different times during the game.

"If any of the fellows get tired in their two-minute stints we'll quickly sub a youngster of 35 or thereabouts," laughed Daugherty today. "And if any other Mansfielder would like to join the squad he may call me at 4117-6 or 3295-4."

Possibly the oldest players on the squad are Jim LeMunyon sr. and Bob Young, both Independent stars in the early 1920's.

Then there are the former Senior high aces like Jim Courtney, Don Sharp, Bob Bride Fred Hout, Ruhland Isaly, "Ruts" Seymour, Dick Treisch, Jerry King, John Hall and Hank Richards.

Courtney was one of Ohio's top high school stars and was an All-Ohio at Wooster college. Sharp starred at Ohio U. after winning recognition as one of the top scholastic stars in the state. He held the all-time Tyger score mark of 28 points for many years. Sharp garnered the 28 against Ashland making all but four of the Bengal tallies.

Add to the group Don Hattman, Harry Oster, Bob Ross, Marion Ward, Gene Shoemaker, Lowell Burris, Charlie Bonar, Harry Wineland, Ray Friday, Jim Wallace, Jim Benedict, Bob Shade, Bob Charles, Doc Hayfer and Fred Carver.

Bob Ross played at Fremont high school and Ohio Wesleyan while Harry Ross is always touted as the best all-around amateur and semi-pro athlete in Mansfield history.

Stars, Westinghouse Win Close Contests

LeRoy Dill and Don Sands were the heroes as Westinghouse and the Mansfield All-Stars scored last-minute victories in an outstanding basketball doubleheader played last night at Senior high gym.

Dill dropped in a field goal with 45 seconds to go to give the All-Stars a 49-48 victory over Loudonville Flxible Clippers in their first game. Sands connected with only 20 seconds left to give Westinghouse the American league championship over Mansfield Tire, 35-34.

SUBS ARE HOT

The All-Stars trailed all the way in their game but showed the value of top-flight subs as they outscored the tough Clippers, 12-9 in the fourth quarter.

Twelve men broke into the scoring with Dick Roberts topping the list with nine points. The All-Stars, organized for the Cleveland Brown benefit game in March, were playing the first in a series of warm-up engagements.

The other contest pitted American league first half leader Westinghouse against the Tiremen who were last half champs.

The contest was close all the way with the score being tied at the half 16-16. Tire jumped ahead two points at the end of the third quarter, but Sands last-minute fielder made the difference. It was his sixth bucket to give him the scoring leadership with 12 points.

Westinghouse will meet Frankie Mitsch's for the City Class B championship Thursday in John Simpson gym. Mitsch's won the National league title.

Senior High Points For Canton Club

Senior high school's basketball team is going through practice this week with the knowledge that there will be little time for drills starting next Monday.

The Tygers wind up their reguar 1948-49 campaign against Canton McKinley Friday night and then must concentrate on the opening of the Mansfield sectional tournament. Senior high's first tournament date is Wednesday, March 2 with Galion offering the resistance.

Against Canton, the Bengals will put their 19-game home court winning streak on the block. The McKinley team was the last to defeat Senior high in the Tyger lair.

WORKS ON SHOOTING

Coach Vern Hoffman is spending a lot of time this week on fundamentals and shooting. The Bengal foul shooting has shown tremendous improvement and four of the first five are hitting the gratis shots at better than .500. The work from the court has been a bit spotty at times, however.

Slender Jimmy Anderson has the Tyger individual scoring championship sewed up with 264 points in the 19 games. He has dunked 107 field goals and 50 of 98 foul shots for an average of 13.9.

Norb Shibinski, the husky pivot man, has 201 while Paul Ferguson has 131 and Soph Ken McCally, 108.

★

Madison also ends its regular schedule Friday night, playing at Galion. The Rams meet favored Bucyrus in the opening game of the sectional joust, March 1.

Urges $400,000,000 Increase In Military Pay Schedules

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of Defense Forrestal urged Congress yesterday to overhaul military pay schedules.

Forrestal told the House Armed Services subcommittee the job has been needed for years but has not been attempted since 1908.

The subcommittee is holding hearings on a bill to raise military pay an average of 14 per cent. It would give fat raises to high brass and some increase to almost all ranks.

The legislation would affect the Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Public Health service and coast and geodetic survey. Under the bill, all are classed as "uniformed services."

Forrestal said he could not ednorse the specific bill because it has not been approved yet by the budget bureau. However, he said the bill has been recommended to the bureau by the nation's military authorities and was prepared in his office.

He estimated it would increase military costs about $400,000,000 the first year. He said the increase would taper off to about $28,000,000 after five years.

Forrestal said the bill is based on a study of military pay made by an all-civilian commission headed by Charles R. Hook, Chairman of the Armco Steel Corp.

"Mansfield Is Progressive"
Yes, Mansfield is one of the best rated cities in central Ohio for opportunities of future business and stability. Therefore, it is attractive to large retail organizations who are expanding with caution in selection of additional outlets for retail stores. The MADISON STORES INC., who rave recently selected Mansfield as the outstanding city to expand. Therefore, their 15-year lease on the former VOGUE location at 86 N. Main St., which lease WE NEGOTIATED represents without a doubt that our city can well be proud of its stability as a sound future possibility both as a retail outlet and more than that a city where future valuations in all kinds of real estate investments is above question of doubt. We solicit your future needs in all types of real estate investments. We are amply able to serve you whether its investing or selling properties of every description.

Wanted—Good Owner

I'll admit my outside make-up isn't right up to par, but all I need is a man who knows how to use a paint brush. Now on the inside I'm in good shape. I've got hardwood floors in living room and dining room. My kitchen has cabinet sink with plenty of cupboard space. Open stairway to my three large bedrooms and bath on second floor. Floored attic. Under me you'll find a solid fountation with a dry basement. Good coal furnace. My present owner wants smaller home so I know they're not just trying to unload me. I'm well worth what they're asking for me. All I hope for is that who ever buys me will treat me right. Fred Volz knows all my good points because he's my neighbor. Chambers, Hiss Continue Sparring Before Group

By ROBERT E. STRIPLING

(Edited By Bob Considine)

24th Article in a Series

When order was restored, after the near fisticuffs between Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers, in their remarkable confrontation in a New York hotel suite, I got the questioning back on the identification by Hiss of Chambers as a "George Crosley."

"You are fully aware, "I said to Hiss, "that the public was led to believe you had never seen, heard, or laid eyes upon an individual who is this individual, and now you do know him."

"Absolutely!" Hiss returned.

"You are willing to waive the dentures?" I asked, perhaps sarcastically.

"I am," he replied.

"You never knew this man under the name of Carl?" Nixon asked, remembering the earlier testimony of Chambers.

"I did not," Hiss answered.

"You never paid this man any money for communist Party dues?"

"I certainly did not!" Hiss answered with some heat.

At the end, Chairman J. Parnell Thomas, who had come in late, said to Hiss, "That is all, Thank you very much."

"I don't reciprocate," Hiss said.

"Italicize that in the record," Thomas said to the stenotypist, and it was attended to in the report we eventually issued of the intense clash.

In her executive session testimony of August 18, 1948, the day after the meeting of Hiss and Chambers, Mrs. Hiss backed up her husband's denials and testified that Crosley, as she said she knew Chambers, was a "sponger." Beyond that she did not recall much about him.

The public confrontation of Hiss and Chambers took place on August 25, 1948, in the caucus room of the Old House Office Building. Hiss was accompanied now by counsel, John F. Davis.

Hiss demanded that the committee ask Chambers if he had ever been in a mental institution, make inquiries about his life and place of residence, ask him whether he was an alcoholic and whether he had ever been convicted of a crime.

When he took the stand immediately after that, Chambers answered negatively to the questions propounded in the name of Hiss. Nixon was curious about the Chambers story that he had spent time at Hiss's home and had lived in the spare apartment which Hiss also had under lease, for nothing.

BOTH COMMUNISTS

"Why would Mr. Hiss let you go in there for nothing?" he asked.

"Because Mr. Hiss and I were communists," Chambers answered, "and that was a comradely way of treating one another. There is nothing unusual in such a procedure among communists ...Mr. Hiss considered it a privilege to have a superior in the communist organization in his home."

The stocky editor later mentioned Hiss again as "...the closest friend I ever had in the communist Party."

Nixon, as well as the rest of us, had continued to marvel at that.

"Mr. Chambers," he said, "can you search your memory now to see what motive you can have for accusing Mr. Hiss of being a communist at the present time? Is there any grudge you have against Mr. Hiss over anything that he has done to you?"

The suggestion of tears came into Chambers's eyes when he answered.

"I do not hate Mr. Hiss," he said. "We were close friends, but we were caught in a tragedy of history. Mr. Hiss represents the concealed enemy against which we are all fighting, and I am fighting.

"I have testified against him with remorse and pity, but in a moment of history in which this nation now stands, so help me God, I could not do otherwise."

Rep. Herbert was still curious, after Chambers testified that he had gone under a number of names: Carl, by which he said Hiss knew him; J. Vivian Chambers, his baptismal name; J. Whittaker Chambers; David Whittaker Chambers, Cantwell and Dwyer—but never Crosley. Herbert asked:

"Can you search your mind at this time and tell this committee what possible motives you could have in jeopardizing your position with Time (he had just testified that he made $25,000 a year as one of the magazine's senior editors) by making the statements that you are making? You realize that if they are false, you are finished?"

"It is not just my position on Time," Chambers said. "What I am jeopardizing is my position in the community."

Mundt asked him, at the end, if he felt that communist operations in Washington were continuing.

"It is unquestionable that communists are still functioning in government," he answered, "and will continue to function until they are rooted out.

"It may be that during a period like this, when a number of investigative agencies are looking into the matter, they are resting on their oars for a while.

"But they will remain in being."

(TOMORROW: Stripling tells how the committee made its interim report—and, for want of documentary evidence, recessed, only to be galvanized back into action by a hint of new evidence.)

Patience at Small Tasks Aided Washington With Great Duties

By FRANK H. FULLER

RICHMOND, VA. — (AP) — Patience is preparation!

"Faithful performance of daily small duties prepared George Washington for the largest task that ever fell to the lot of a single American," says Dr. Douglas Southall Freeman, biographer of the first president.

Washington went back to Mount Vernon at the beginning of 1758 to a very much run down plantation which he had to build up. One of his characteristics, Dr. Freeman said, was that whatever duty was laid upon him he discharged fully.

During the years of restoring Mount Vernon and making it profitable, Washington found that he had very many difficult services laid on him by neighbors. Every man in trouble came to him for counsel, and many came to borrow money. When he could although he was not always able, Washington let them have it. Being a business man he wanted to be repaid, but he had the greatest difficulty with them.

"At the same time that he was a community benefactor, he had to be diligent as a bill collector," Dr. Freeman said.

One neighbor was perpetually in trouble and Washington wrestled with his problems for five years. When the family finally went to pieces, Washington tried to save the children and particularly to educate one of the sons.

A former rector of his parish died and left a trust fund for his widow, Washington being named one of the trustees. The widow married again and, Dr. Freeman said, the second husband tried to rob her. She was afraid of him and frequently would acquiesce and try to get Washington to give her money for him. Then she would write letters privately to Washington asking him not to do so.

It was as difficut a case as a man could have, Dr. Freeman said, but Washington stuck to it for fully seven years and did his absolute best to make the hard man pay the woman her annuity of 100 pounds.

Dr. Freeman cites these as two typical cases of what Washington had to do in the community. Out of these difficulties, he says, the first president developed a patience of inestimable value in dealing with the personalities in his army.

Walter Lippmann Says:

Truman Doctrine Falling Apart

There are many nice questions of journalistic ethics in the fracas which has followed Secretary Royall's off-the-record press conference at the American Embassy in Tokyo two weeks ago.

About what he did say there is some, but not much, dispute. The correspondent of the United Press understood him to say that he had "grave doubts" whether in the event of war "it would be worthwhile" to "hold" Japan and to undertake "the task of feeding 80 million civilians." The correspondent of the Associated Press states that Mr. Royall gave no "indication ....that the United States intended to withdraw from Japan," but then went on to report that "what he did say merely raised this fundamental question. Is the United States obligated to defend Japan? The secretary answered negatively in expressing his opinion. General Douglas MacArthur has said 'yes'."

Although there is no substantial difference between these two versions, Secretary Royall is quite within his righs in issuing a denial. It is the rule of the game that an official cannot be held publicly responsible for remarks made off-the-record. He is entitled to repudiate his remarks even if he made them, even, indeed, if he agreed off-the-record that they could be used without attribution to him. A correspondent who attends an off-the-record press conference knows that in return for what he gets, he must pay a price—he must take the risk of having his story denied.

THE ROYALL INCIDENT points up the hardest and the least clarified problem of our foreign policy. There is no dispute, for it is a matter of record, that General MacArthur has asked for reinforcements and that the Joint Chiefs of Staff have had to say no.

They have had and are having to say no, or something very like it, to many similar requests—to those who argue that we must hold on strongly in Korea, to those who wanted to give Chiang Kai-shek strong military support, to intimations that Southeast Asia is threatened and must be strengthened, that Iran is threatened, that Greece needs still more military aid, that the Berlin airlift needs to be enlarged, and most recently that Norway needs to be reinforced. All of these claims are in addition to the project of rearming Western Europe under the Atlantic Pact.

We have here, in the concrete and no longer in the form of diplomatic rhetoric, the test of the famous policy of containment, otherwise known as the Truman Doctrine. As stated two years ago by Mrs. Truman "It must be the policy of the United States to support free peoples who are resisting attempted subjugation by armed minorities or outside pressure."

The American chiefs of staff have known that it was an absurdity to suppose that adequate local force could be developed on the whole vast periphery of the Soviet Union in Europe, the Middle East and Asia. To attempt that would be like sending three policemen to surround a building that has twenty-five exits. They have known always that a power like Russia cannot, if it wishes to make war, be contained by local defenses—that it can only be held in check by the deterrent power of the over-all force of the United States.

DURING THE TWO YEARS of the Truman Doctrine there has, therefore, always been a deep contradiction between American strategical planning and American diplomatic planning. Mr. Lange, relying on our diplomatic declarations, was quite right in coming to Washington to find out not whether the United States would go to war if Norway were attacked, but—whether the United States could and would defend Norway against invasion. This is also the issue between General MacArthur and Secretary Royall. It is not whether the United States will go to war if Japan is attacked. It is whether in case of war Japan is to become another Bataan.

Secretary of State Acheson is entering upon a period when major decisions of high policy will have to be taken—in conjunction with General Eisenhower. Acheson is not able merely to carry on and administer as a going concern a policy laid down for him by his predecessors. For that policy is coming apart at the seams from Korea to Norway, from China to Greece, from Tokyo to Berlin.

Columbus Pastor Testifies Against an FEPC Act for Ohio

Hearings Nearing Completion

Measure Almost Certain of OK

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A Columbus pastor today expressed opposition to a Fair Employment Practices commission for Ohio.

FEPC legislation will not do what its sponsors hope it will, the Rev. William E. Ashbrook asserted. He represents the American Council of Christian Churches of Ohio.

Mr. Ashbrook was one of several witnesses asking to appear at the House Labor committee's final public hearing on the controversial FEPC bill today.

The plan would make it illegal to refuse to hire or to fire anyone by reason of race, color, creed, national origin or ancestry. A commission would hear complaints of discrimination and ask courts to enforce its orders.

Others asking to appear against the measure included Charles Hollman of Cleveland, an employment service operator.

Supporting the proposal was Lockwood Thompson, Cleveland attorney and Ohio State university trustee.

Questioning of witnesses at two previous hearings indicated the bill probably would be recommended for passage, possibly this week.

Reverend Ashbrook called attention to a resolution adopted by the Ohio council which said proposed FEPC legislation would:

"Incite and intensify antagonisms and thus play into the hands of communist disruptors.

"Violate individual freedom of conscience and contribute to undermining of free economy by extension of governmental controls."

Mr. Ashbrook pointed out that the bill would exempt religious organizations from hiring and firing requirements for others.

The police officer's condition seemed improved at noon today according to hospital personnel.

Mrs. Taylor told the News-Journal she had received many phone calls and visitors inquiring about Taylor. She said that "everyone seems interested." She is spending most of her time at the hospital.

Boy Stabbed After Game

CLEVELAND — (UP) — Outraged parents today demanded an investigation of teen-age hoodlum attacks following the Senate championship basketball game at the Arena here last night.

One youth was knifed, two others were beaten and a girl was roughed up after John Marshall high school edged Central high school, 42-40.

Martin Gives Dems One Month to Act

WASHINGTON — (INS) — House Republican leader Martin today gave the Democrats a month in which to act on his tax reduction bill repealing wartime excise levies, the so-called luxury taxes.

After that, Martin declared, he will feel free to attempt to force a vote on the bill to lop off one billion to one and one-half billion dollars in consumer taxes.

Bloodmobile Due In City Wednesday

"We need more blood donors!"

That was the plea today of Mrs. Stuart Weaver, chairman of the blood donor committee of the Red Cross chapter, in announcing the arrival here tomorrow of the National Red Cross Bloodmobile.

The blood donor project for Mansfield and Richland county will be installed at the Park Avenue Baptist church from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., Wednesday and Thursday.

Although donors are urged to make appointments prior to tomorrow, anyone may go to the church any time before 2 p. m and be tested for blood donations, Mrs. Weaver said.

Industry and churches are working on the blood donor program and although more than 100 have been signed up for tomorrow, the quota for the two days is 280 applications.

"That many must be signed up if we are to obtain our quota of blood for this visit of the Bloodmobile," Mrs. Weaver said.

During Winter's talk, "Guns Are My Hobby," he discussed his experiences on recent deer hunting trips.

A plate lunch was served by Roy Winters, George Hoover, and Fuller Dunson at the close of the meeting. The table was decorated in keeping with George Washington's birthday.

It was learned that a bill creating the permanent job of a super chief of staff, or as Eisenhower is now called, military consultant to the president and defense secretary, has been submitted to the President and the Bureau of the Budget

None of the money obtained in the robbery has been recovered, the FBI said.

Brown was sentenced to his present term in the federal penitentiary on Jan. 27, 1949. He was convicted of transporting a st[illegible] car from Shelby to Morehead, Ky., on Nov. 20, 1948. Abbaticchio said Brown returned to Shelby on Nov. 22 and drove back to Morehead on the 24th.

He was arrested at Morehead on Nov. 24 when he attempted to sell the car. He was returned to Clevel[illegible] and was convicted in federal court.

Brown's record, according to the FBI, shows that he was received at the Lewisburg penitentiary to serve an 18-month term on March 24, 1947 for interstate transfer of a stolen automobile. He was granted a conditional release on June 7, 1948.

Previously, he entered the Mansfield reformatory on May 19, 1945 to serve one to 20 years for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent and was paroled on May 15, 1946.

Holiday Rain Falls On City

Thousands of Mansfielders who are enjoying a holiday today, Washington's birthday, had their holiday spirit dampened by rain and dreary weather.

The weather bureau said today would be mostly cloudy and mild with scattered showers. Cloudy and somewhat colder was forecast for tonight. Wednesday will be cloudy and slightly colder.

Meanwhile threats of floods in midwest areas increased today as the mercury headed for above freezing marks over the snow-covered areas of Nebraska. As warmer air moved across the plateau states and northern Rockies melting of huge piles of snow was expected.

The weather bureau's five-day outlook follows:

Temperatures will average two to four degrees above normal. Somewhat colder Wednesday. Warmer Thursday. Somewhat colder Saturday. Rain likely Thursday and Saturday, totalling 1-2 to 2-3 inches.

Shelby Asks Rerouting of Highway 61

Council Approves Extension In City

SHELBY—Council last night approved the drawing up of resolution favoring the rerouting of Route 61 by extending North Broadway to join the present route. The resolution is to be drawn up and presented to the county commissioners for further action.

C. L. Shoup, county commissioner, last night presented the proposal by stating the request had been brought up in 1944. Due to the number of projects on hand at that time it was not considered. However, since there were no new projects on hand at the present time, it was felt the proposition might be considered.

Shoup stated since Route 314 was being improved and Route 546 extended to Springmill it would increase the amount of traffic through the city.

The proposed rerouting would divert traffic that now is going down Main street and out North Gamble and eliminate the jams and wear and tear caused by heavy trucking. In rerouting the traffic would be sent out North Broadway bypassing the center of town and would continue out until it runs into the present Route 61. This also would eliminate two railroad crossings.

Council approved the transfer of $35,183.30 from the light plant fund to the electric light plant construction fund to cover the final payments on the recent boiler improvement. The complete payment is not to be made until the water company installs the final controls. The total amount involved in the program was disclosed as $385,183.30.

Council passed ordinances to proceed with the following improvements: storm sewers on Post street to the school property and hydrants and water lines on Morris road.

Opera House Plan Aired In Ashland

Disposition Proposal Outlined to Council

ASHLAND — A short-cut method of getting the disposition of the old Opera House to the voters was outlined by city council last night to a representative of a local group opposing the city ordinance providing for its sale to the highest bidder.

Harry Hamilton, representing opponents to the sale, was advised to abandon the earlier referendum petition, now involved in a maze of legal red tape because of insufficient legal signatures, and circulate instead an initiative petition.

Such a petition, the city law director, C. S. Huffman, pointed out, should ask for repeal of the ordinance of last fall for sale of the Opera House. Council then would refuse to repeal the ordinance and the petition would automatically go to the board of elections and provide for a public vote on the issue, Huffman stated.

Permission was granted the Ashland Chamber of Commerce to bring in an Ohio C. of C. tax expert to make an impartial audit of the city's ratio of income and expenses and to make recommendations to the council.

Willard Fry, president of Ashland Transit Lines, Inc., city bus service, made an informal request for extension of the bus lines in the north end of the city and asked removal of a parking meter on Center street which interferes with the departure of the busses from that section.

Washington's Leadership Praised

ON THIS OCCASION of George Washington's birthday anniversary it seems fitting to repeat the tribute once paid to him by the aristocratic Duke of Wellington, who might have been expected to regard the leader of a democratic army less highly. But he said of Washington: "The purest and noblest character of modern times, possibly of all time, and considering the raw troops with which he opposed the trained and veteran soldiers of England, also a great general"—and the Duke of Wellington kept a portrait of Washington in his study, where he could contemplate it daily.

Washington's generalship has never received adequate attention from the country which it helped to create. Praise from the undefeated commander who crushed the great Napoleon at Waterloo is no small reward for a leader of troops.

His statesmanship and wisdom are only partly appreciated. His times seem so long ago that there is a tendency to consider the history of them only superficially. Washington's writings and speeches get little attention now, perhaps because their weighty style does not lend itself well to the modern idea of rapid reading.

The student who will take the time and trouble to read Washington carefully will find that much of what he said and wrote has the great quality of timelessness, and that the high praise which was bestowed on him in an earlier day was by no means undeserved.

Obstacles To Achieving 'Brotherhood'

WHILE observance of National Brotherhood week, now in progress, serves to direct notice to this specific subject, it becomes apparent that emphasis on any such theme is a matter of year after year advancement in human relations, rather than for concentration in a single week.

It takes no more than a casual look-around locally, without extending the search further, to realize the great strides that civilization must yet take before near approach can be made to the ideals of "brotherhood", although progress is being made—slowly but surely.

In discussions of brotherhood it is racial and religious antagonisms that are chiefly stressed, but the controversies that prevent friendly association of all people extend much further than these differences.

From the world scene, with its varied thinking that leads to destructive wars, clashing interests narrow to national dissension; lack of harmony between employes and employers; divided views on state issues; municipal upheavals; personal enmities, and even to discord in family circles, with resort to divorce as a frequent evidence of need for further development of qualities that make for better understanding between individuals as well as groups and nations.

Any national or world movement, however worthy, must have its origin in the hearts of the people and must extend, through neighborhoods and communities into the larger circles which may eventually encompass the entire globe. The purposes of Brotherhood week will be poorly served unless they are applied to individual cases in which there is need for harmonious relations that do not now exist.

Exit Doors That Open Inward

REPORTS of the fire which did an estimated million dollars damage in Cleveland Saturday night included statements to the effect that injuries to patrons of a bowling alley in which the fire was first noticed resulted from efforts to escape through an exit door that opened inward.

As state law requires that places of public assemblage have doors that open outward, the investigation promised in the Cleveland case may be expected to extend to other possible fire hazards that have been permitted to continue because of inadequate inspection, or failure to remedy faulty conditions.

Fortunately no lives were lost in the Cleveland fire—but that cannot be guaranteed in future instances of similar sort.

A scientist now questions dependability of the drunkometer, contending that an onion breath produces the same reaction as alcohol—so the old stagger method of detecting drunks may be resumed.

It has been several years since experiments proved it possible to produce eggs with blue or green yolks—but thus far there has been no appearance of great demand for a change from the familiar yellow.

Klan Has Another Name

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON—On the list of so-called subversive organizations compiled and maintained by the justice department is the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., the well-known hooded order.

The organization no longer exists under that name. It was disbanded as such in 1944 when it faced an income-tax delinquency case by the internal revenue bureau, which thereupon dropped the case.

But the Ku Klux Klan still lives under the different title of Association of Georgia Klans, and still rides on its missions of terrorism and intimidation under the banner of "white supremacy," as press reports from the South show. Its continued existence and spread are matters of common knowledge in the South.

These developments aroused the interest of the American Veterans Committee because of its concern about civil liberties and the protection of minorities in the South and prompted action by national headquarters here.

A few weeks ago Gilbert Harrison, AVC national chairman, wrote to Attorney General Clark and urged that the Association of Georgia Klans be put on the subversive list. He called attention to the continued existence of the Klan under another name and submitted documentary evidence gatherd by Lester Perrycells, of the Atlanta, Ga., chapter, a member of AVC's national planning committee.

At the same time he wrote to Secretary of Treasury Snyder, enclosing the evidence submitted to the attorney general, and asked that the internal revenue bureau reopen against the Association of Georgia Klans the tax case it had brought—and dropped—against the knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc No action has come from either department.

In his letter to the attorney general, Mr. Harrison referred to a directive by the civil service commission's loyalty review board to loyalty boards of all federal agencies to "confine their consideration and assessment of derogatory information to organizations on the attorney general's list."

* * *

Same Old Practices.

SINCE the Association of Georgia Klans, the new name under which the Klan operates, is not on the list, the AVC chairman pointed out that "the government has no way of keeping out of its employ members of the Association of Georgia Klans." The attorney general's list is used as a guide in federal employment.

Complimenting the justice department on "the manner in which it has handled threats to our democracy from the totalitarianism of both the right and the left," Mr. Harrison said "we think the department has shown a regard for civil liberties not always shown in other quarters."

"We trust, however," he added, "that the department in its necessary concern over communists does not forget that we face a real danger fro mthe extreme right."

Evidence shows that the Klan has made little pretense even to put on a new front. Dr. Samuel Green of Atlanta, grand dragon of Georgia of the previous Ku Klux Klan, is also grand dragon of the Association of Georgia Klans. and the same hierarchy of officers still functions—grand titans, furies, cyclops, hydras, kleagles, nighthawks, terrors, and other juvenile titles.

Under its new name. the order uses the old application blanks, the same insignia and regalia. the same books, and in connection with one of its ceremonials on Stone Mountain, outside of Atlanta, last July, Dr. Green passed out the word that any member of the old organization could become "reinstated" in its successor at half price—five dollars instead of ten.

Farmer's Diary

Planning Your Shrubbery

By CALVIN A. BYERS

I USED to pass every day a home where the shrubbery planting seemed to accent beautifully the low, rambling lines of the house at the top of an incline. Last week I happened to drive that way after some years absence, and was amazed to see the whole premises half hidden by dense growth of shrubbery.

It looked for all the world like a man unshaven for weeks. Two pointed evergreens had shut off the view from the living room windows, the path to the entrance door was overgrown with barberry, the hedge in front had grown tall and unkempt.

I do not know who made those shrubbery plantings, but whoever chose the various varieties did not plan far enough ahead A few years can make a great difference in the proportions of evergreens. Imagination is always necessary in planting permanent parts of a landscape and hedges are apt to blot the whole place off the map, if they are not kept trimmed.

Overcrowded foundation plantings shoot up to hide the view in short order. Or perhaps they crowd each other enough so that all are runty and scrawny, lacking in beauty. Or perhaps a young pine may grow tall and its roots may protrude through the wall, ruining the masonry.

A willow tree sends its roots to the water, and may clog drains or septic tanks. Too many large-growing species on a lawn — maples, spruces, pines, hemlocks — soon outgrow their first effectiveness and make the place look gloomy, eerie and unbalanced. There is no cure except to cut them down and replace with smaller plantings.

Gaudy, overdone jobs are another effect to be avoided.

Highly colored, overly expensive shrubbery make a place look as overdressed and ridiculous as a farmers wife in high heels and a fur coat, with a Pekingese blinking out of her side pocket.

Choose the shrubs that are native to your locality, so far as you are able. Plant them with an eye to the future. Remember that it pays to buy sturdy stock that will not break easily in high wind or with weight of snow.

Personally I like to have flowers where they can be seen from the house windows, instead of in foundation plantings, where passersby get all the benefit.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Grand Canyon As Viewed By Frenchmen

By DREW PEARSON

haps I shouldn't admit it, but in all my many wanderings about the USA I have never been to the Grand Canyon, and it finally took the French Gratitude Train to get me there.

The Santa Fe railroad invited the French Merci Train visitors to be its guests at the Grand Canyon for a day, and since they have been traveling all hours of the day and night and needed a rest, I urged them to take the day off and see America's greatest scenic sight. My advice was selfish, because I wanted the excuse to go, too.

There are no inside stories to be written about the Grand Canyon, so I am the wrong person to try to describe it. It lies stark and open in its azure magnificence, and you don't need one who is supposed to be an expert at crouching under the White House cabinet table to tell you about it.

Any one with the price of a railroad ticket to get there can sit on its rim and speculate on how the hand of God and nature, working through the ages, carved out this temple of beauty.

Besides, all sorts of writers, with pens more delicate than mine, have described the Grand Canyon. So let me simply be a reporter and describe it as seen through the eyes of four French railroad men who never before had set foot in the USA.

* * *

Jokester Becomes Solemn.

THEY got their first breathtaking view early in the morning just after rolling out of their Pullman. For about two minutes they gazed down—a mile straight down—to where the muddy Colorado river looked like a dirty ribbon winding in and out of gorges—so small at that distance, it seemed you could step across it.

And they gazed fourteen miles across to the gorge on the other side, purple and red and yellow in the morning sunlight; and some 30 miles up the Canyon toward the Painted Desert and the Navajo country stretching off toward Utah under a blanket of snow.

"Humph," finally remarked M. Andre Picard, the jokester of the French committee. "I have seen exactly the same thing in France."

"M. Picard," hastily remonstrated polite M. Louis Cast, "is up so early his eyes are only half open. He can see only half the Canyon."

By this time we were inside Hotel El Tovar and at breakfast.

"I suppose," continued M. Cast, looking around at the unique mountain lodge furnishings of El Tovar, "that Picard has also seen hotels just as good as this in France."

"Of course," said Picard. "In the French Alps."

"Well, at least here is something you don't have in France," pursued Cast. "Ice water."

Picard agreed. However, as the day wore on, jokester Pickard became more solemn, and at supper, perhaps thinking I had taken him seriously, he made a little speech.

"My eyes," he said, "are all the way open now, and I have seen things I never could have seen in France. Like most Frenchmen I thought that all things beautiful were in France, but today I have seen that the most beautiful things of all is in America. I thank you for helping me to see it."

* * *

Frenchman's Observations.

MEANWHILE, other members of the French committee were busy taking meticulous notes of what they saw and heard. And here are random jottings from the diary of a Frenchman during a day at the Grand Canyon:

"Henerik Van Loon says that all the people in the world could be packed into a box half a mile square. If this box were then dropped into the Grand Canyon it would be so small, relatively, that it would take a searching party to find it. The Colorado river was so named because 'Colorado' means 'red.' The river is so full of silt and gravel that it is gradually washing the lands of Utah, Arizona, Wyoming and Colorado away. One million tons of silt and gravel come down the river every day. This is enough to fill a train of gondola cars stretching for 300 miles. (American gondola cars, not French. The American are three times bigger.) So much silt comes down the Colorado river that the lake in front of Boulder Dam will eventually fill up.

Perhaps that is better than having all the good American soil wash down to Mexico—which is what happened before Boulder Dam was built.

"The Americans are going to have a big battle over the Grand Canyon—a battle of beauty against utility. The utility people want more water for the big Western cities and for the irrigation of farm lands. The beauty people don't want to take water away from the Colorado river and spoil the Canyon.

"Dams above Grand Canyon are already proposed in order to divert water under the San Francisco mountains to the Salt River valley. This would reduce the Colorado river to a mere trickle. We hope the beauty people win. But knowing these Americans, we bet on the utility people. So we are glad we saw the Grand Canyon before it gets spoiled."

So This Is Jesse Jones!

By INEZ ROBB

HOUSTON—Jesse Jones hopes heaven will be a mite like Texas.

Eventually, he'll be happy just to be inside the pearly gates, this patron saint of Texas and patriarch of Houston said today.

But as this big, handsome man sat in his big, handsome office in one of the many big, handsome buildings he owns in Houston, he cautiously opined that he would be a bit more at home if some part of heaven is like the Lone Star state.

As "Mister Jesse" spoke — he's "Mr. Jesse" throughout Texas — the implication was rather plain that it could hardly be heaven and not be like Texas!

This was spoken like a gentleman and a true Texan. And who has a better right? For almost fifty years, the destiny of Texas and that of Jesse Jones, lumber king, builder, banker, publisher, public servant, philanthropist and renowned poker player, have been inextricably combined.

By general consent he is the first citizen of Texas. From time to time, the state has lease-lent him to the United States government to serve as chairman of the reconstruction finance corporation, as federal loan administrator, as chairman of the import-export bank, as secretary of commerce, as member of the war production board, and on many other federal boards and commissions in need of sound financial acumen.

But always, his heart has belonged to Texas, and vice-versa.

Mister Jesse is one of the fabulous Horatio Alger success stories with which Texas runneth over. And, oddly enough, Mister Jesse's success didn't come with oil, which has produced in Texas the most fabulous group of multi-millionaires in the nation.

"I never monkeyed with the oil industry," Mister Jesse explained with a reasonably straight face, he added:

"I always regarded it as a hazardous business."

So Mister Jesse, who is as famous in the poker field as the late "Black Jack" Pershing, made lumber the solid basis of his fortune before he branched out into real estate, newspapers and banking.

* * *

Started On "Shoestring."

MR. JESSE had the misfortune to be born in Tennessee. But he rectified this error in his early teens. At 18, he was in Hillsboro, Texas, earning $40 a month in a lumber yard and casting his first presidential vote for Grover Cleveland in the same year, 1892.

"I wasn't old enough to vote," Mr. Jesse explained with a sly grin, "but I was big enough!" Even then, he was more than six feet two. But he carried himself no straighter than he does today, although he will celebrate his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary in April.

Fifty years ago, in 1898, Mr. Jesse moved over to Houston, a move surcharged with kismet for both man and the town. Houston had only 40,000 residents in those days, and Mr. Jesse had hardly that many pennies to his name. But he went into the lumber business on a shoestring.

Now, Houston's metropolitan area boasts approximately 700,000 persons and Mr. Jesse is a genuine Texas tycoon. He literally owns the Houston skyline.

No less than thirty-three business buildings, including the town's tallest sky-scraper, the 38-story Gulf building, are Jones property. He also owns a big Houston bank and its most prosperous newspaper, the Chronicle.

Just how rich Mr. Jesse is, nobody knows and certainly he himself isn't saying. Maybe 25, maybe 50, maybe 100 millions. Maybe more.

But Mr. Jesse, in his big office lined with the pictures of Presidents Wilson, Hoover, Roosevelt and Truman. just chews gum and says, with scarcely more than the trace of a smile:

"I'm not a millionaire. I'm just a workhorse."

But, obviously, in a class with Citation.

Dave Boone Says:

TODAY is the birthday anniversary of George Washington, Father of His Country, and I sometimes think that if he could hear the speeches, listen to the scuttlebutt and see how folks are behaving in this great land today, he would disown the child.

* * *

Washington and his half-starved, battered men, beset by plotters, scuttlers, double-dealers and every adversity in the field did less complaining than a lot of us do in pretty smooth going.

* * *

It would be a great thing if all present-day leaders were as staunch, true, dependable, and unconcerned about votes and applause as George was.

* * *

There are men today who wouldn't think of crossing the Delaware without first arranging for the photographs and for a radio address from the boat.

* * *

And as for Valley Forge, they wouldn't make a move without the assistance of the alphabet bureaus, emergency regulations, special controls and a commission on tides to study oars and oarlocks.

Timely Editorial

Michigan's Experience.

Another Detroit policeman, a fine young family man with an excellent record in the service of society, has been shot to death by a punk, armed and ready to kill anyone who got in his way. The gunman fired without warning while being questioned on the street.

Had the dead officer's partner been able to kill the killer on the spot he would have been cited, and the community would have breathed easier.

As it is, the worst the killer can expect is keep for life at the public expense.

A change in the law to permit capital punishment of the murderous hoodlum would accomplish only what the policeman is allowed to do and expected to do in self defense.—Detroit News.

Time For Prayer

—By ANNE CAMPBELL

When in the bitter weather of the year,
He looked upon the meadows overlaid
With ice, and saw his men shivering near,
Washington prayed.

He knelt upon the ground and called aloud
To ragged soldiers who, like him, dismayed
By war, were comforted when, with head bowed,
Washington prayed.

The Lord, who marks the wounded sparrow, saw
And heard and answered. We who are afraid
Are heartened by the tale. When winds blew raw,
Washington prayed.

Now in the threat of tragic circumstance,
When from the prayerful custom men have strayed,
We shall recall that, fearful of mischance,
Washington prayed.

THOMAS-CLINE NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED IN CHURCH

Formal Ceremony Held In First Evangelical United Brethren Church on Saturday.

THE REV. V. C. STAMETS officiated for the double ring ceremony of Miss Janice Harriet Thomas and Donovan C. Cline Saturday at 2:30. The vows were spoken before the altar of the First Evangelical United Brethren church which was decorated with two beauty baskets of snapdragons and gladioli, palms and ferns. Two lighted seven branch candelabra lighted the scene.

Miss Thomas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob W. Thomas, 131 Raleigh avenue, and Mr. Cline is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Cline, 489 Howard avenue.

Mrs. Robert Hoover presided at the organ and Mrs. Stella Friend was the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a white satin gown made with leg-of-mutton sleeves and a tiny Peter Pan collar. Tiny self-covered buttons fastened the bodice from the neckline to below the waist. The very full skirt ended in a full train. Miss Thomas' finger-tip veil was held in place with handmade rosebuds of white satin.

She carried a modernistic tsyle bouquet of red roses tied with a large white satin bow.

Mrs. Peter Thoma, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a baby blue satin gown with a tight fitted waist and a very full skirt. Completing her ensemble were elbow length blue lace mitts. Her semi-halo effect head dress was made of tiny handmade rosebuds of the same blue satin as the gown.

Her bouquet was the same style as the bride's with several tones of pink sweetpeas, rosebuds and centered with blue iris. Her flowers were tied with pastel pink ribbon.

Mrs. Thomas chose a black flowered print dress with pink accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Cline was attired in a navy blue dress with black accessories. Both mothers had corsages of pink rosebuds.

Shirly Rissler, brother-in-low of the bridegroom, was the best man.

Two friends of the bride and bridegroom, Bill Marvin and George Smollen, escorted the guests to their pews.

A reception for 125 guests was held immediately following the ceremony at Johns park pavilion. The hall was decorated with a large white bell over the center of the long table. White streamers fell from the bell to the table, centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Tall tapers in crystal holders were placed on each end of the table. The bride's aunt and cousin from Cleveland, Mrs. Harriet Frederick and Mrs. Harold Frederick, presided at the table.

For an undisclosed destination, the new Mrs. Cline wore a black and gold dress with black accessories and a white topper. Her corsage was of red roses.

The couple will be at home at 15 Granite street after next week.

Mrs. Cline graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the W. T. Grant company. Mr. Thomas, also a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, is an employee of the Rex Gilbert Auto Electric shop.

Out-of-town guests present at the wedding were from Cleveland, Parma, Galion, Loudonville, Butler, Perrysville, Danville, Howard, Centerburg and Greer, Ohio.

The Woodville Mothers' club will sponsor a cake walk and social meeting at 7:30 Wednesday evening at Prospect park pavilion. The public is invited.

WAR BRIDES FORM CLUB

By JOAN SCHWEITZ

GERMAN war brides of Mansfield veterans have banded together and formed a club called the German War Brides society. They held their first meeting Feb. 19 at the home of Mrs. Anton Schnurer, 293 Second avenue.

The society was the idea of Mrs. Robert Harwood, who met her husband in Germany while he was a civilian working for the United States government and she was employed as his secretary. Mrs. Harwood, who has been in this country since last June, was a member of the Foreign War Brides club in Norwalk and decided that it would be a good idea if the girls from Germany knew each other and became friends.

She contacted Mrs. Eleanor Sheehe of the Red Cross and through her she located nine German war brides in the Mansfield area.

The society will meet the third Saturday of every month at each other's home.

At the present time there are nine members of the society: Mrs. Robert Harwood, Mrs. Steven Stirtzinger, Mrs. Anton Schnurer, Mrs. Lee Sams, Mrs. Frank Cuiksa, Mrs. Frank Griffeth, Mrs. William Walker, Mrs. Sidney Brown and Mrs. Jesse Yoder.

The women say they are all very happy in Mansfield. They come from every part of Germany and most of them have learned English from their husbands.

The officers of the club are, Mrs. Robert Harwood, president, Mrs. Stephen Stirtzinger, vice president and Mrs. Anton Schnurer, secretary-treasurer.

There were twenty guests present. The evening was spent hemming kitchen towels which were presented to Miss Russell.

A dessert was served early in the evening with the decorations in keeping with George Washington's birthday theme.

Red, white and blue candles were placed around throughout the house and arrangements of red cherries decorated the tables. The centerpiece was of red and white carnations.

The couple will be united in a formal ceremony at Grace Episcopal church, March 6, with the Rev. Samuel U. J. Peard officiating. The bride-elect is employed at the General hospital.

Horoscope

For Wednesday, February 23

An adverse and pernicious planetary aspect urges the wisdom of alert attention to sinister or calculating attempts to undermine stable, ambitious and flourishing operations already well on the way to lasting benefits, growth and solidity. Possibly a confused or tangled mental attitude, a burst of curious feelings, or the irresistible intervention of subtle or tricky proposals, while intriguing and thrilling, might prove disastrous.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, are warned against the possibility of duplicity, snares, schemes, or alluring propositions, which are liable to undermine sound performances or worthwhile ideas already well on the way to security. Secrecy, intrigue, or false reasoning may divert from safe channels, in which confusion and doubt are likely to play havoc with feelings, conduct and profits. Shun strange personages with captivating propositions.

A child born on this day may fall victim to its own beclouded feelings and judgments, being easily duped or influenced by gilded persons
